FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Steel Cabinet Manufacturer Secures KCMA Certification

August, 2004 - Dwyer Kitchens is awarded KCMA certification for their steel and aluminum cabinetry, making them the first and only manufacturer in the steel kitchen and bath cabinet category to receive this certification.

To achieve this status Dwyer's powder coated steel and aluminum cabinetry underwent rigorous testing to show the superior quality and durability of the materials used in construction of their products.

The ANSI/KCMA A161.1 certification program is sponsored by The Kitchen Cabinet Manufacturer Association (KCMA) and is nationally known to U.S. government agencies, architects, builders, remodelers, and other specifiers.

Dwyer Kitchens has been recognized as the leader in compact kitchens as well as in steel cabinet fabrication for the kitchen market for over 80 years. Serving the military, government, student, public and supportive housing markets, as well as hospitality and healthcare markets, Dwyer Kitchens is headquartered in Michigan City, Indiana with its main sales office and showroom in Chicago, Illinois.
